CELEBRATING THE 70th ANNIVERSARY OF JOHN LENNON

In 2010, Martin Lewis arranged to salute the 70th anniversary of the birth of John Lennon with multiple projects in support of Amnesty International. He organized the release of a special new recording by Ozzy Osbourne of the John Lennon song "How?" (from Lennon's 1971 "Imagine" album). Lewis also instigated & produced the iconic music video of Ozzy paying tribute to John Lennon in New York City. Over 7 million views to date. (Music produced by Mark Hudson. Video directed by Ernie Fritz)

Sting thanks Martin Lewis for recruiting him into Amnesty International and producing his first-ever solo performances in 1981 – which led to him leaving The Police and launching his solo career...

Sting again thanks Martin Lewis for recruiting him into Amnesty International. Which led to his subsequent involvement as a social and political activist – Band Aid, Live Aid, the Human Rights Concerts, the Rain Forest Foundation and more. For which Sting was honored at the Smithsonian Institute in 2017.

In a nod to their long history and friendship, Sting invited Lewis to be his special guest at the induction ceremony in Washington. Lewis brought his red winklepickers as his 'plus-two'...

In gratitude to the Smithsonian for its salute Sting decided to donate his iconic Fender Stratocaster guitar to the Smithsonian.

"I've decided to give them my Fender Strat from the eighties, the one I used on 'The Secret Policeman's Other Ball'. There are a number of reasons why I think this is the right choice... I wrote a lot of my hits on that guitar ("Message in a Bottle" for one). That performance marked the beginning of my move to a solo career (thank you for that!) It also marked my long-standing and continuing association with Amnesty International."
